

Carbon Essentials for Agribusiness

Join the Murraylands and Riverland Landscape Board for a series of free workshops and feedback sessions designed to share current information, facilitate discussion and inform agri-business directions – the sessions will comprise multiple break-out sessions to enable discussion of related scenarios, questions, problems and ideas.

Sessions will cover:

- Comparison of common produce certification systems and QA systems/environmental management systems against the carbon footprint calculation process.
- Does my business need to calculate a carbon footprint? What are the current options or tools for calculating annual estimations of emissions per ton of produce?
- Latest progressions in Australian Government carbon policy and carbon sequestration methods/practices for agriculture.
- Realistic practice change options and considering these for mitigating emissions on farm – or is their income stream potential?
- Understanding where your enterprise fits in the carbon economy and how to interpret the carbon marketplace.
- Sessions will comprise facilitated feedback sessions to enable your questions to be answered and your suggestions to be incorporated into future industry workshop content.
